SIXTH FORM

Charlotte LeFlufy

Charlotte is the Global Always & Whisper's Social Impact Program leader.

She works with teams around the world to drive Always' mission to help stop the drop in confidence that so many girls experience at puberty. This is done with programs aimed to tackle societal barriers to girls' confidence, provide puberty and confidence education to children, parents and teachers, and enable access to period products.

She has led award-winning campaigns including the #LikeAGirl Campaign, the global Always #EndPeriodPoverty program and the Always School Education Program, which reaches over 18million people each year. Prior to working for Always & Whisper, Charlotte worked for a small NGO in El Salvador on community-based projects.

Lottie Thomas

Lottie is a Principal Software Architect at Mirada Medical Ltd in Oxford.

Mirada specialises in software for medical imaging. They create tools that use images, such as CT, MRI and PET scans, so improve the diagnosis and treatment of cancer.

She is the software engineering team leader for the radiation oncology segment. Her team designs and writes software using a range of programming and scripting languages.

As the team leader, Lottie is responsible for the overall architecture of their products, and their technical roadmap. She is also line manager for some of the team, looking after their wellbeing and professional development.

Alexandra Jones

Psychodynamic Counsellor

After leaving St. Gabriel's School in 2006, Alexandra went to The Italia Conti Academy of Theatre Arts for three years and was awarded a Level Six National Diploma from Trinity College London in Professional Musical Theatre.

She worked as an actress in London theatre scene for a few years and embarked on relocating to Los Angeles working in commercials, pilots, short films and music videos. After three years she returned to London and stepped away from the acting industry and was inspired to enrol onto a Certificate course in Psychodynamic counselling at Manor House School for Psychotherapy and Counselling Training Programme. She enjoyed it so much that it led her to continue on to achieve a Diploma in Psychodynamic Counselling & Therapy in the Community.

After graduating she set up her Private Practice in 2019 in which she offers counselling online and over the phone and works as a Counsellor and Assessor for the charity Waterloo Community Counselling. She has recently begun working in a remote locum position as a Psychodynamic Assessor for the NHS in South London and Maudsley Foundation Trust.

Creative Production Manager at Harvey Nichols.

Georgia's current role comprises of managing all creative workflow in the business including briefing, scheduling, capacity management and delivery of all creative assets in the business. She also manages the shoot production team.

In previous roles, Georgia was a producer organising photo/video shoots for Selfridges, Topshop, John Lewis and The White Company.

Georgia Benney

Louise Kingham

Clinical Researcher

Louise joined St Gabriel's in year 6 for the last year of Junior School and left after her GCSEs. She studied Biochemistry at university and, after a brief gap working in the IT industry, she is now working in Clinical Research, managing the start up of clinical trials globally.

Louise works for a company called PPD. They are a Contract Research Organisation who manage trials on behalf of pharmaceutical companies. She has worked across a number of different studies for different diseases and at different stages. Louise has managed trials in a number of different countries which has meant she has had to learn and understand a lot of different regulations!

Louise has a 9 month old puppy called Ted (in her photo!) and he keeps her busy when she's not on calls for work!

Louise says that Clinical Research is one of the most rewarding and fulfilling fields to be in. Knowing that the work they do on a daily basis means that people will have access to new treatments currently unavailable to them is amazing. She states that her team could be part of saving or prolonging someone's life, or giving someone a better quality of life; all of which, she believes, are so important.

Kiran Bhusate

Business Development Manager at Amazon

Kiran currently works for Amazon within their Shipping team where they support sellers getting their products to end customers quickly. She manages their Tech partnerships within this team, which means getting involved in building new services and features that improve the experience for sellers using Amazon logistics.

Prior to this, Kiran spent five years at GSK (Glaxosmithkline), a healthcare company, focusing on growing brands such as Aquafresh across digital channels (ie, Facebook, Tesco.com, Amazon etc).

Susannah Montgomery

As a lover of all things 'food', when Susannah found out she could study it at university she was sold.

Susannah was accepted at The University of Leeds to study Food Science & Nutrition for 3 years with the addition of a placement year in industry. Her year in industry was at Dr Oetker, developing pizzas. It threw her into working life and confirmed that this was the field she wanted to go into.

Her current role as New Product Development Manager involves full management of bringing a new product to market from concept all the way to factory launch.

Ambreen Bhusate

Ambreen graduated from Warwick Business School with a degree in International Management. Her studies included semesters in Hong Kong and Montréal.

Initially, she worked for PepsiCo as an Intern in their Sales & Marketing Division. This was a client facing role managing field sales territory for Walkers Snacks Ltd. She then went on to work for Fujitsu as an Analyst within Consulting & Professional Services. In this role she worked with blue chip clients to help implement digital transformation projects.

Ambreen currently works for Willis Towers Watson, a British-American multinational risk management, insurance brokerage and advisory company. It is the third largest insurance broker in the world. She works as an Associate within Strategy & Corporate Development.
